PORNSTAR MARTINI

Vodka / Passoa / Passion Fruit / Prosecco

A Douglas Ankrah has always been at the cutting edge of the London bar scene, opening up LAB bar in 1999 and later Townhouse. Ankrah was also the inventor of the Pornstar Martini, of course, a drink that he launched as a ready-serve. He was quoted saying “I called it Pornstar because I thought it was something that a Pornstar would drink, there’s nothing sexual there”.

ESPRESSO MARTINI

Vodka / Tia Maria / Coffee

The story goes that British bartending guru Dick Bradsell created the drink—originally called The Vodka Espresso then the Pharmaceutical Stimulant—at Fred’s Club in the late 1980s, when a young model, who Bradsell claims is now world famous, sidled up to the bar and asked for something to “wake me up and fk me up”. His solution was a combination of vodka, fresh espresso, coffee liqueur and sugar, shaken into a frothy mix of bittersweet addiction.

FRENCH MARTINI

Vodka / Chambord / Pineapple Juice / Raspberry

French Martini was invented in the 1980s at one of Keith McNally's New York City bars. It next appeared on the drinks menu at McNally's Balthazar in SoHo in 1996. ... The key ingredient that makes a Martini "French" is Chambord, which is a black raspberry liqueur that has been produced in France since 1685.

COSMOPOLITAN

Vodka / Cointreau / Lime Juice / Cranberry Juice

Though this drink's origin is often-disputed, the most recognized creation of the Cosmo is credited to Toby Cecchini, of The Odeon in Manhattan in 1987. According to Kyle Ford, a rep for Cointreau, he was "introduced to the Cosmopolitan by co-worker Melissa Huffsmith. He put a fresh spin on the known South Beach and San Francisco versions [that used Rose's Lime Cordial]."

MOJITO

Classic / Strawberry / Passionfruit

The Mojito has got to be one of the most easily recognisable cocktails. The drink has a very interesting past that links back to the 1500s when it was considered to be a drink for the Cuban working class. The most widely believed story of its origins involves a 16th century Cuban cocktail named 'El Draque,' which was named after Sir Francis Drake, which involved an early, more crude version of rum called 'aguardiente,' fresh mint, sugar, and lime

SOUR

Whiskey / Amaretto / Pisco

The combination of base spirit, water, sugar and citrus mean that a sour is basically a scaled down punch. Early sours did not include egg white, however as Robert Vermiere says “Just a few drops of egg improve all sours” and we think he’s pretty spot on.

ALIBI

DRINKS LIST

DARK N STORMY

Dark Rum / Lime Juice / Bitters

Bermuda, where the Dark 'n' Stormy was invented. A highball made of spicy ginger beer and rich Black Seal dark rum, the drink allegedly got its name from an old sailor who compared the drink's murky hue to the color of storm clouds. It's an unproven legend, but the drink's connection to the joys and dangers of seafaring is well-established.

ALIBI

BRAMBLE

Gin / Chambord / Lemon Juice / Blackberry

The Bramble is the brainchild of Dick Bradsell, aka 'The Cocktail King.' The blackberry drink is arguably the most famous of his creations from his time at Fred's Club Soho in the 1980's, and is often compared to that of Jerry Thomas' Gin Fix, swapping the latter's raspberry syrup for blackberry liqueur.

ALIBI

OLD FASHIONED

Whiskey / Angostura Bitters

The Old-fashioned was created by a bartender at the Pendennis Club in Louisville. The club maintains that the bartender was Martin Cuneo, and that he made the drink for a Kentucky Colonel (and bourbon distiller) named James E. Pepper sometime between 1889 and 1895.

SINGAPORE SLING

Gin / Cherry Brandy / Benedictine / Grenadine

Created by Bartender Ngiam Tong Boon at the famous Raffles Hotel in Singapore, this is widely regarded as the country's national drink. At the time, women could not be seen to consume alcohol in public and so the talented bartender seeing a niche in the market, created this drink resembling fruit juice.
